Emissions trading?

Firms may help lure ConAgra plant

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Blue sky may soon become a marketable commodity in the Metro East.

Area business leaders are looking into establishing a "bank" where industry could buy and sell air emission allowances that go unused.

"It's a major issue on economic development for both Madison and St. Clair Counties," said Bob Wydra, manager of the Tri City Regional Planning Commission.

"If a company reduces its emissions, whether by a cutback in production or by stronger controls or however it is done, the unused portion becomes a marketable commodity," said R.C. Bush, executive vice president of the Tri City Area Chamber of Commerce.

The proposal to trade permitted but unused emissions levels was suggested to help lure a proposed ethanol plant or grain processing facility to the port. The proposed new facility would require an air emissions permit, Wydra said.

Three other sites, two in Kentucky and one in Indiana, are being considered. ConAgra officials are also being considered. ConAgra officials are expected to make a decision on the facility's location by April.

"It's crucial to the project. There has been a real willingness on the part of local companies to cooperate."

— RC Bush
Chamber director

Port officials have initiated discussions with several area business leaders — Granite City Steel, American Steel Foundry, Marathon Oil, Amoco, Union Electric and others, to determine the quantity of allowable air emissions that currently goes unused and to find out how ConAgra might acquire offsets.

"It's crucial to the project," Bush said. "There has been a real willingness on the part of local companies to cooperate."

According to figures from ConAgra, the new plant would cost $10 million to build and equipment worth $75 million. A nearby bottling facility would cost about $20 million.

A total of more than 400 jobs would be created if the facility is built here.

Few taking advantage of tax credit program

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Few Granite City residents have taken advantage of a city program that can save home buyers up to $1,000 each year in the form of an income tax credit.

Home buyers are currently participating in the Mortgage Credit Certificate program, which the city has offered for more than two years.

"This is really a great opportunity for first-time home buyers in the city," Mayor Ron Seolph said. "This could save you $20,000 to $24,000 over the lifetime of your home loan."

While every home owner is typically entitled to a federal income tax deduction for the interest paid on a mortgage loan, a Mortgage Credit Certificate allows a home buyer to take that savings one step further.

Mortgage Credit Certificates allow first-time home buyers (those who have not owned a home in the last three years) to deduct 25 percent of the total interest paid from the buyer's tax liability. The interest paid goes directly toward the taxes owed rather than as a reduction in gross income.

In other words, if a participating home buyer's federal tax liability for 1995 is $2,500 and the participant paid $4,000 in mortgage interest in 1995, federal income tax liability would be reduced to $1,500 from $2,500 — a savings of $1,000.

Any mortgage with a conventional fixed rate or adjustable rate loan, FHA or VA loan or a privately insured mortgage loan is eligible for the program. The certificate is good for the life of the mortgage, meaning a typical home buyer would be eligible for a tax credit for 30

The program is designed to stimulate home purchase activity.

There is more than $1 million available in the program for eligible participants in Granite City. But not everyone qualifies for the program.

To be eligible, first time home buyers must meet income requirements. For one- and two-person families, income cannot exceed $46,000 a year. The annual income limit is increased to $52,900 for families with three or

ATM ban sought on boats

Alton Belle Casino patrons are lining up on both sides of a proposed law to ban bank and credit card machines on riverboat casinos.

Sens. Vince Dominio and Evelyn Bowles are two of the four chief sponsors of a bill introduced Thursday that would prohibit cash distribution machines such as ATMs, debit card machines and credit card machines on Illinois riverboat casino property.

The ban would apply to the boats and the docking areas, Dominio said.

"I think it's a start to limit gambling losses that people can't afford," said Bowles, D-Edwardsville. "As long as the boats are allowed to operate they have a captive clientele and it's too easy for people to use their ATM card or credit card and gamble beyond their means."

Some Alton Belle customers interviewed Thursday agreed. "I think they should take them out," a Missouri man leaving the boat said. "People are weak when they gamble. The machines make it too easy just to pull $100 out on the card. I won't bring my card over here."

Police continue sweep

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Madison and Venice police continue to make arrests following an undercover drug buy operation.

Madison Police Chief Steve Skoklo said 17 of 29 suspects have been arrested, and another dozen people brought in on unrelated charges.

On Tuesday, Venice and Madison police — assisted by state, county and federal law enforcement agencies — arrested almost two dozen people on various charges during a morning sweep in the area.

Police had been working on an undercover drug-buy operation since November.

About half of those arrested Tuesday had been charged in that operation. The others were arrested on unrelated charges.

On Wednesday, a 17-year-old youth with a dozen outstanding warrants was arrested after being spotted by Venice police.

Crash victim identified

The youth killed in a Chouteau Township accident Tuesday night has been identified as 15-year-old Thomas Shawn Perry of St. Louis.

Authorities said Perry was killed when the stolen Jeep in which he and two other youths were riding crashed on Canal Levee Road in Chouteau Township.

He was at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City from which he had been released after being treated for a head injury.

Authorities said the one-vehicle crash happened about 7:40 p.m. just south of the canal bridge. The cause of the crash was not immediately known.

Burke said that other two occupants of the 1994 Jeep Cherokee were injured.

"(The vehicle) rolled over and they were all thrown out of the vehicle," she said.

A 19-year-old man, Edward Perry, Jr., of St. Louis, was seriously injured and flown to a St. Louis hospital. His condition was unavailable and his injuries were not disclosed.

Authorities said David Scott, 19, of St. Louis walked away from the scene of the accident but was later arrested for the alleged theft of Perry's vehicle, which had been reported stolen from St. Louis. Scott was in the Madison County jail Wednesday.

The incident is under investigation by the Madison County Sheriff's Department and the Metro East Auto Theft Force.

More control sought over cemeteries

SPRINGFIELD — The state comptroller is pushing for legislation to give her office more power to investigate abuses by cemetery operators.

"Vulnerable families have suffered at the hands of cemetery owners and operators and financial misdeeds have produced rundown cemeteries, open crypts and other disturbing circumstances," Comptroller Laeta Jackson said Wednesday.

"We need stronger tools to combat these problems and prevent future ones," she added.

Although the comptroller's office has been responsible for regulating cemeteries and funeral homes since 1972, little has been done, she said, citing only nine license revocations in 22 years out of 1,827 licensed cemeteries and funeral homes. However, spokeswoman Molly Hall said there are no complaints currently involving any cemeteries in the area.

The comptroller also filed a lawsuit Wednesday against the owners of Forest Home Cemetery in Forest Park. "We now believe the cemetery operator has misappropriated millions of dollars from the trust funds to make required trust fund deposits and/or to make improper mortgages on the property and went so far as to sell the cemetery's wrought-iron fence for scrap," she said.

The legislation she is seeking would permit her office to conduct more detailed audits and analysis of the sizes of cemetery and funeral home trust funds, such as advance purchase of plots and services. Didrikson also wants authority to issue subpoenas and file civil suits on behalf of consumers in cases of suspected fraud or deliberate negligence. She also is asking a 5 percent fee on the sale of burial plots to assist in maintenance of troubled cemeteries and recovery of misappropriated trust funds.

Former White Hall Township Supervisor Dave Surbeck, who served as a member of the 1989-90 committee using township tax funds to pay for privately-owned local cemeteries, said the comptroller's initiative "sounds like a positive move."

Inspections

"I'm hoping we can submit a proposed ordinance to the County Board for approval at its March (20) meeting," Health Department Administrator Donald Brannon said. "We could begin inspections immediately and the ordinance is approved."

The ordinance would establish licensing and regulations for food service establishments, set a license fee schedule and authorize inspections and enforcement procedures.

Meeting this week on erosion

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A regional conference on urban erosion control and storm water management will be held Tuesday at the Gateway Center in Collinsville.

The conference comes on the heels of legislation introduced in both the Illinois House and Senate that would create a use tax for developed property in Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties to pay for local flood control.

The conference, "Improving Water Quality Through Urban Watershed Planning," is being sponsored by eight soil and water conservation districts, including Madison County's.

The conference is an attempt to update and inform local public officials, engineers, developers, planners and conservationists on how they can improve their developments and protect the environment through the use of watershed planning and the implementation of conservation practices.

Last week, Rep. Tom Holbrook, D-Belleville, introduced a bill that would allow a referendum on the user fee. Similar legislation was introduced by Sen. Evelyn Bowles, D-Edwardsville, the week before.

Holbrook said he didn't expect action on the bill "any time soon."

If approved, the bills would authorize a referendum in November on a user fee for paved or developed property. Money collected would be used as matching funds for state and federal flood-protection

That solution was proposed by the Metro-East Regional Storm Water committee — a bipartisan committee made up of elected leaders from all three counties. The Storm Water Committee has been examining storm-water disposal problems since the 1983 flood.

The conference will begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday. Registration is $30. For information call the Madison County Soil & Water Conservation District at 656-5166.

More handy Gardening Tips from the experts at

FRANK'S® NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

Just when you think we've probably run out of ideas for gardeners, guess what? Not a chance. After all, spring's inching closer, so here are a few more apropos gardening tips.

- Additional mulch may have to be added to your landscape beds now if your original mulch has been washed or blown away during the winter. Roots of plants can still be damaged by soil heaving.

- If you own a greenhouse, you can begin sowing the seeds for vegetables and annuals such as tomatoes, peppers, impatiens and begonias.

- Check any dahlias you may have been overwintering. For best performance this summer, the dahlias should not be allowed to dry out totally while in storage. Mist the mixture lightly if it is very dry.

- When repotting annuals, inspect them for signs of insects or disease. Don't forget to inspect the roots, too.

- Don't forget Valentine's Day, it's coming up Wednesday. A beautiful houseplant makes a great gift. Check them out at Frank's and pick out one while the selection's still good.

- Now's a good time to force branches of spring flowering shrubs as forsythia, crabapple and pussy willow into bloom. Place branches in a container of water in a cool area with low light. When the buds start to swell, move them into bright light.

- If you notice the foliage on rhododendrons curling when temperatures dip below 30°F, it's a normal, natural occurrence. This helps the plants conserve water.

- If you have some old seed packets and are wondering whether or not they're still good, there's an easy way to find out. Place a few seeds on a paper towel and keep it moist for two weeks, then see how many have germinated. This will give you a good idea of the amount of germination you can expect from the entire package. If none or not enough germinate, there are plenty of fresh seeds available at Frank's.

- If you plan on using old containers for planting this year, be sure to clean them out thoroughly. Use a mixture of one part household bleach to nine parts of water. Rinse thoroughly.

- Check burlap screens to make sure they're still protecting shrubs from winter's chilling winds.

- Draw up a site plan of your property to help in your landscaping. With a drawing that has some degree of accuracy, it's easy to decide what you want and where. Moving pieces of paper around is easier on the back than doing so with the real things. Don't forget to include the locations of any utility lines, pipes, etc. in your drawing.

- Now's as good a time as any to start a bird-feeding hobby. These colorful creatures can brighten up any gray day, and there's an excellent selection of supplies at Frank's.

Humane Society has good weekend

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

What started out as a bad weekend for the Madison County Humane Society ended with a record number of adoptions at the group's Edwardsville shelter.

Last Sunday afternoon, the group held a special adoption day and found homes for 67 animals, President Ledy Van Kavage said.

"It's just the biggest we've ever done," Van Kavage said.

"We're so thankful for all those who helped us."

The help included dozens of donations of water — something they had a short supply of at the shelter since Friday.

"We've got a number of plastic milk jugs out there," said Pat Jones, shelter director. "Lots of people brought us water. We had enough to give everybody drinks but there wasn't enough to clean with."

The shelter does not yet have a connection to Edwardsville water and relies on water that is trucked in weekly. Last week's bitter cold spell postponed the regular delivery of about 1,700 gallons of water.

The shelter's water pump won't start and the other guy who delivers to Van Kavage said he would be frozen before he could get there.

The successful adoption day has given eight dogs from the Edwardsville shelter on Simpson Place a new lease on life.

Bands of overcrowding at the shelter, the animals were scheduled to be euthanized Tuesday.

My view

Cell division explains differences

I have been a bit behind on my reading lately and just finished an article by Dave Barry in a back issue of Reader's Digest. The article should be required reading for all married women, women expecting to marry some day and women who would like to remain single for reasons they never married.

The name of the article is "What Women Don't Know About Men." In it Barry attempts to explain the difference in thought processing between women and men, and why each sex continually misinterprets the meaning of what the other is saying.

Barry's column is dead-on accurate as well as being hit-and-miss. But what he fails to point out are the physical reasons men and women cannot communicate except in the most rudimentary fashion. It all goes back to the development of the child prior to its birth.

All babies start up with the same number of raw cells which, over time, multiply, develop into a complete female baby. The problem occurs when cells are instructed by the little chromosomes to make a male baby instead. Due to this, there are only so many cells to go around, the cells necessary to develop a male's reproductive organs have to come from cells already assigned elsewhere in the female.

Recent tests have shown that these cells are removed from the developing center of the brain, migrate lower in the body and develop into male sexual organs.

This difference between the male and female brain manifests itself in various ways. Little girls will tend to play things like house or learn to read. Little boys, however, will tend to play things like placing a bucket over their heads and running into walls.

Little girls will think about doing things before taking any action. Boys will just punch or kick something and will look surprised if someone asks them why they just punched their little brother who was just as guilty and looking the other way.

This basic cognitive difference continues to grow until puberty, when the hormones kick in, action and the trouble really begins. After puberty, not only the size of the male and female brains differ, but the centers of thought do as well. Women think with their heads. Male thoughts often originate lower in their bodies where their ex-brain cells reside.

Of course, the size of this problem varies from man to man. In some men, only a small number of brain cells migrate and they are left with nearly full mental capacity, but they tend to be rather dull, second rate specimens. Some men are known in the political terms as "Republicans."

Other men suffer larger brain cell relocation. These men are more commonly referred to as "Democrats." A small number of men suffer massive brain cell migration to their groins. These men are usually referred to as "Mr. President."

The good news is that this is usually just a temporary problem, seldom lasting more than 50 or 60 years after puberty.

A Granite City woman said her friend uses the machines too much. "She won't live! She just keeps going back. It's nice to win, but these ATM machines help you rip yourself off again when you lose."

Demuzio said he anticipated opposition to the legislation from rival slot machine operators and from the banking industry but said "I think the legislators I have talked to have privately indicated it's a good idea and they would support it."

"I would think we will be seeking some Republican co-sponsors but we haven't had a chance to talk to the other side of the aisle yet," said Bowles.

"People go out on a boat with the money they feel they can afford to lose, but if they lose it in the first hour, they still can't get off and the next thing is they use their ATM card or credit card."

trade emissions in place in the Metro East, said John Justice, regional manager for EPA's Bureau of Air in Collinsville. But the state Legislature has approved a similar program established by the business community in the Chicago area.

"We don't think such a program is necessary in the Metro East," Justice said.

Justice said the Illinois Clean Air Market program is designed to regulate volatile organic compound (VOC) emissions as they affect ozone levels. The market is now classified by EPA as an ozone "moderate non-attainment" area, but Justice said he thinks the region can reach the attainment level without a formal emission trading program.

Julie Neposchlan, public information officer for the Bureau of Air in the EPA's Springfield office, said emissions trading is a relatively new idea that was approved by the Legislature last year.

"It's something developed from the concept phase and it will eventually be implemented," she said.

EPA Director Mary Gade has said the ICAM program—the first of its kind in the U.S.—gives business flexibility in terms of clean air compliance issues while ensuring that clean air standards are maintained.

Under the program, IEPA establishes appropriate air quality standards for each company. Those firms then decide which pollution control options work best for their facilities—emission unit controls, production changes or emissions trading with other sources that have been able to exceed standards.

Gade estimated that Illinois companies can save more than $1 billion under the ICAM program.

Wydra said one possibility the port's environmental consultant is looking into is utilizing energy efficiency programs such as the Leadership Council Foundation or the Belleville Area College Foundation, through which emissions could be traded. That would give industry the option to "donate" rather than sell emissions and receive a tax deduction rather than listing a capital gain.

Bush said such a program could be very beneficial to business.

Drusilla Andrews DAR honors good citizens

The Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution held a special meeting and dinner.

It was held in the Niedringhaus United Methodist Church parlor to honor the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizens selected at the Granite City and Venice high schools.

Regent Linda Mizell opened the meeting by leading the group in singing the Pledge of Allegiance. She then gave a brief history of the DAR, its goals and the history behind the chapter.

Drusilla Andrews was a four-year-old child when Indians attacked her homestead and killed her mother, father and baby brothers. Drusilla was carried away. Redskins offered and all traders were asked to be on the lookout for her. Five years elapsed before French traders were able to return her to locate her. Several chapter members are direct descendants of her family.

Judith Schatz and Sandra Wilkinson presented a program on "Our Flags" which dealt with the Illinois State DAR Society's work toward getting the 48-star flag adopted by the state legislature in 1911.

Changes were mentioned in the U.S. flag as various states became part of the expanding Union. The original flag, which saw duty in the Civil War, was displayed.

Between the time Venice was officially incorporated (June 1, 1856) and the time Granite City was incorporated (March, 1896), seven new states were added to the union.

Since Granite City's incorporation, a period of four years, six additional states have been added. The 48-star flag and the current 50-star flag were both displayed.

The program closed with the question: Will there be a Sist star added to the flag and who will it be?

Jean Wilson, DAR Good Citizens' committee chairwoman, reminded the group that the good citizens must be from the good citizens of secondary public or private high schools. The students selected must have the qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotic.

MIRANDA MOSBY, the daughter of Elaine Mosby, is the good citizen from Venice High School. Her memberships include the Student Council for four years, the National Honor Society and class treasurer for three years, chairman of the prom committee, and the environmental committee for being active in the Future Homemakers of America, the Art Club, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Business Club.

She participated in basketball, track and cheerleading for one year each and was on the volleyball team for four years.

Honors received include being a DARE role model, a Rotary Student of the Month, a participant in Venice-Aurora Technical School and a counselor for the J.W. Roberts Youth and Athletic Club. She has also been a member of the Belleville Area Youth Leadership Council.

Mosby attends the Canaan Galilee Missionary Baptist Church and serves on the youth department board, as well as being a youth usher.

CATRINA BENSON, the granddaughter of Marie Benson, represents Granite City High School as a good citizen. Among her activities are drum major of the band, secretary of the band lettermen, National Honor Society and president of the Tri-M. She is a member of the Science Club, the Social Studies Club, the math team, JETS and the schoolbowls. She works through Alpha as a peer leader.

Her awards include Who's Who Among American High School Students, national merit major first class; All-American performance cast; Illinois University Edwardsburg Honors Band; first place drum majors; Belleville Area Youth Salute; and eighth place in math competition.

Benson works in her church by teaching a preschool class on Sundays. Other interests include playing the oboe in the Granite City Community Band, participating in Junior Achievement and membership in an acting group.

In her spare time, Benson works part time as a cashier in a grocery store. Her hobbies include reading, stamp collecting and model rockets and planes.

Her future includes plans to attend the University of Illinois and to major in physics engineering with a goal of involvement in aerospace and space research.

Wilson awarded each girl a certificate, the DAR Good Citizen Award, a personalized paper weight to remind them of their accomplishments.

Other guests and members in attendance were Marie Benson, son of Carl and Barbara Schoen, Audrey Speery, Barbara Williams, Dorothy Whitmer, Carl Mizell and Marie and Norman Reinhardt.

Shiloh's Bluegrass will open for Riders

By Lili Ruggieri
Correspondent

George Portz and the Friends of Bluegrass didn't create bluegrass music, but the five-member acoustic band did help popularize the zippy, toe-tapping style of music that's now the Midwest.

And when the Friends of Bluegrass meet with the slap-stick comedy trio billed as "America's favorite cowboys," it doesn't get much better.

George Portz and the Friends of Bluegrass will open for Riders in the Sky in the new St. Louis Trans World Dome for two performances at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 24, during the St. Louis RV Camping & Travel Show.

Riders in the Sky, in Shiloh, George Portz and the Friends of Bluegrass energizes crowds with their repertoire of zesty bluegrass, spicy Cajun and traditional favorites. And as naturally as they jamb their way through bluegrass tunes, the Friends of Bluegrass can easily make the transition to old-time Western music.

For 20 years, the Friends of Bluegrass have played music that's often called "country music in overdrive" by its listeners.

Members of the award-winning band include lead singer Zane Prosser, lead guitar player Dave Montgomery, banjo player Kevin Liley and George's wife Kathy on the stand-up bass. George Portz is the leader and founder of the group and a holder of numerous fiddle championships.

The Shiloh resident also is the wrestling coach at Collinsville High School.

The band's success and longevity is a mix of personality and enthusiasm for the music they play.

"We don't just put on a concert, we entertain," Kathy said. "When we are performing, we have a good time, and it shows."

The Friends of Bluegrass' appeal crosses all demographic boundaries. George Portz said the backbone of the band's listeners lie within the recreational vehicle and camping crowd.

Up until 10 years ago most people in this region didn't know what bluegrass was, Kathy said. Now bluegrass music is fast rising in popularity, George added.

"St. Louis is a hotbed for bluegrass," George said. "We have a large following." You could say more than 50 bookings a year.

Locally, the Friends of Bluegrass can be heard at several county fairs and at Eckert's Orchards in Washington D.C.

Portz said, "Grandpa Biggs Fiddle Fawndish is among the historical artifacts in the Library of Congress in Washington D.C."

Portz said, "Grandpa Biggs" and bluegrass span four generations of the family.

Bluegrass

Biggs; his mother, Kathleen Portz; and his son Jason all are accomplished fiddlers with championship titles to their names.

It was Biggs who first placed a fiddle in his grandson's hands — George was 12 — and taught him the art of fiddling. George learned to play the song by ear.

At the age of 16, George won his first state fiddling championship simultaneously with his grandfather, a first in the history of championship fiddling, according to George. From then on, those magic fingers and sizzling fiddle led to more than 150 state fiddling championships, a national fiddling championship and performances for Presidents Nixon and Reagan.

Riders on the Storm and the Riders of the Moon were not strangers to each other.

"This will be the second time we've opened for Riders," Kathie said.

Biggs and his band are this year's recipients of the Wrangler Award for Outstanding Traditional Album for their latest release, "Ain't Drinkin' Upstream from the Herd."

The Riders — one has a Ph.D. in music, one has a master's in literature and one has a degree in wildlife management — are known by the monikers of Ranger Doug, "Idol of American Youth;" Woody Paul, "The King of the Cowboys;" and Foo Slim, who is outshined by both his mustache and his stand-up bass.

The trio performs traditional western tunes popularized by movie cowboys of the 40's like Tex Ritter, Gene Autry and Roy Rogers. Cowboy classics such as "Tumbleweeds," "Back in the Saddle Again," "Happy Trails" and "Rawhide" are performed with perfectly matched harmonies and precise acoustic accompaniment.

Tickets are available at the Trans World Dome box office. The cost is $10 for adults, $2 for children 6-12 and ages 5 and under free.
